

CASCADE DRAFT SUPPLEMENT

Addition to bylaws:

If desired, each child shall be allowed to play for his or her parent managing or coaching within the child's level of play.

Pre draft procedure:

Each manager may appoint a designated draft representative (DDR) to assist in scouting and ranking players at tryout events. The DDR may accompany the manager to all tryout events and may attend the draft for the purpose of assisting the manager. The DDR may act as a substitute in the manager's absence for tryout events and/or the draft.

Draft procedure: (draft method "B") to be followed as outlined in the Little League Operating Manual.

Post draft procedure:

At the conclusion of the draft, but prior to the trading period, managers may select one coach.

After all managers wishing to name coaches have done so, the trading period begins.

Beginning in draft order, any manager or coach having a child drafted by another manager is entitled to trade an appropriate player for his or her child. The trade shall be agreeable to both managers AND the player agent. An additional player trade may be made in order to make the transaction equitable for both sides, but all trades must be one player for one player and may not include other agreements such as future draft picks.

If both managers are unable to agree on a fair transaction, the player agent will announce a time limit of five minutes for discussion. If the five minute limit is reached without agreement, the player agent will decide the appropriate players to be traded and his or her decision will be final.

After all necessary player movements have been made, final trade options will be suggested. All managers, coaches and others in attendance are encouraged to carefully examine all of the teams, looking for opportunities to improve team or player situations for the benefit of the league (one team may have an abundance of catchers while another team has an abundance of 1st basemen). Additional trades are optional and are not required. Any trade which would provide better opportunity to both players is highly encouraged.
